MAY

1972

Dear Friends,

The great preacher, Harry Emerson Fosdick once said: "all life consists of two elements: first the facts, second our way of looking at them."

We all know the facts of life (using that phrase in the broadest possible meaning!). But our ways of looking at those facts vary tremendously. Even within a church this is evident:

Take the basic question of how the world came into being and how man was created. One group of people are happy to take the literal Biblical record in Genesis. Another group wants to take into consideration scientific and geological discovery to this present day.

Or....the relationship of Christianity to other world religions. One group would want to go out and 'convert'. Another group would want to enter into discussion and search out common ground.

Or....the vexed question of apertheid. One Christian minister in South Africa will stand up and say that this is the will of God - another ordained man in this country will stand in his pulpit and say the opposite.

Or....the policy of the church to local evangelism. One person may enjoy going round and knocking on people's doors and encouraging personal belief and church attendance. Another will want to respect people's privacy, and find more suitable ways of encouraging people in the Christian faith.

What are we to believe? Should Christianity adopt a policy of laissez-faire - live and let live - non-interferance? This in itself could turn the Christian community into a smug, self-satisfied in-group. In addition you don't have to have a degree in mathematics to realise that if no new people enter the Christian community, the church will die out. Generations have a habit of coming and going.

I believe the answer lies somewhere in between. There is a very real point in the respect we should show for people's privacy, their beliefs, or lack of them. We should never approach people as if they know none of the answers and we know all of them. That is arrogance. We should be willing to learn and listen, as well as proclaim and announce. On the other hand we must believe as Christians that we have something important to say regarding many of the dilemmas confronting this restless age. The Christian dialogue must be kept up, whether it is John Smith having a friendly argument in the works canteen, or the top brass committee of the British Council of Churches talking with a representative group of Industrialists and Trade Union Officials.

Thank God we all look at life differently. If we all had the same spectacles on, we would become at the best, bores, at the worst, cabbages. We know the facts of our faith, we have minds to think and understand, we have hearts to love and forgive, and we have Christ. What more need we ask?

Yours sincerely,

Glyn Jenkins

CHURCH MEETING 31st MAY 1972

With the decision to hold Church meetings bi-monthly in 1972, it was hoped that Church members would place this meeting high on their list of priorities. The March meeting was very poorly attended, but still important decisions had to be taken. In the May meeting, discussion will take place on the question of evening worship and its place in the continuing life of the church. Please try to be present.

BEGINNERS' CLASS

In our Beginners' Class we play a lot, that's true
Our children are aged from 3-5 so work they cannot do,
But as they play, we teach them from the lessons that are planned,
We try to put things over in a way they'll understand.
A game of "going shopping" the lesson is you see
To buy something for "someone else", not always "little me".
We cut out shapes from magazines and then the children buy
Perhaps a pair of shoes for Mum, for Dad a shirt or tie.
Our happiest little customer - a quiet little lad
Proudly spent his pennies on a tyre for his Dad.
"To love what God has given us" we look at flowers and trees,
A short walk on a sunny day is always sure to please.

The tables turn at "News Time"; the children then teach us!
They tell of special outings when they travelled on a bus.
We know all about the Daddy who came home late last night,
And of the Mum who bought a dress but found it was too tight!
We asked one youngster, "Do you have a kitten or a doggy?"
"Oh no", she said "I only have a great, big, fat old moggy."
Some kiddies keep chattering while others never speak,
We've funny ones, mischeivous ones, and some who have a weep.
The children are so different but all of them are sweet
And a Sunday without "Junior Church" just would not be complete.

SING SONG

The April Women's Guild meeting took the form of a musical evening when sweet vocal noises were emitted by mesdames Baines, Jenkins, Lynch, Royle Scaddon and Starkie. Mrs. C. Hey accompanied on the pianoforte.

A bit o' reight gradly nensense was contributed by the guest artist - Mrs. A. Heyworth, and Mrs. E. Gillon did her best to maintain order over the proceedings. The latter also gave the Epilogue and the ladies ended the evening by feeding their faces.

Thank you. The next meeting will be a more serious topic: Mrs. Tawse will give a talk about mentally handicapped children.

THE CREATION OF NEW CREATION

Some members may not yet have heard - (but you will) - that a new musical enterprise has been launched at St. Stephen's. They are a group of vocalists who have chosen to call themselves "The New Creation." Already they have performed before distinguished audiences at the Northern Congregational College and have a booking with Radio Manchester. Some of us have not yet heard them sing but have been made so painfully aware of their existence by other means that our minister has had to distribute a special pastoral letter on the subject. Anyway in fairness, they look nice in their uniform.

Please note that the next issue of the "Messenger" will be a combined June/July edition.

The editor would be grateful if he could receive all news items etc., no later than the 16th May.

Thank You!

A COUNCILLOR PRAYS.....

Lord God, I turn to you before this meeting to ask that you will.....

It'll be a tough debate, Lord, and I'm not sure where I stand.

I've burnt by boats long ago: have to stand somewhere.....it seemed so simple at first - 'be a Councillor for the Gospel's sake: be Christ's man in the Chamber....' and they all learned where I stood - on that first issue. But it got tougher all the time, trying to work it out - the Church was hardly ever on the Agenda!

I couldn't manufacture Christian issues - enough to do without that, you must know - so I've given it up, stopped looking for the special aspect I can handle. Now I try to tackle everything, from every point of view, and battle on.....

Am I a hypocrite, Lord?
Have I let you down?
I can't help the way I am, Lord,
so in this debate, when it gets tough,
...Use me the way you want.....
....for Jesus sake,
Amen.

*

A Prayer

Christ our God
YOU ARE THE KING - WE SALUTE YOU make us praise you with loving deed.....
YOU ARE THE KING - WE HONOUR YOU
make us give honour to the dignity of every man
YOU ARE THE KING - WE OBEY YOU make us find in that obedience, perfect joy.
Amen.

..... Congregational Prayer

A DOWN-AND-OUT PRAYS .....

Surely it must be about time now.....
I WISH THE DOOR WOULD OPEN

I never thought it would come to this: standing in line at the Night Shelter door.....even that last place was better, bugs an' all, till they said it had to be fifteen pence, and wouldn't take the old money.....but this is the bottom step now.....
I WISH THE DOOR WOULD OPEN

Hope the soup's hot tonight - this ten o'clock opening is all right in summer, but I'm frozen waiting here - seems I'm always waiting at a door...
I WISH THE DOOR WOULD OPEN

That funny old guy was telling me about the God loves me thing - wonder if he'll be here again tonight - well if God loves me, what am I doing here? It wasn't really the drink, or losing that job.....it was just me, didn't care, and it's come to this.
IS THE DOOR GOING TO OPEN AT LAST?

A Prayer

O God give help and comfort
to the people whom we meet
whose miseries offend us
and are past our means to help.

O god heal the leprosy
of our selfishness,
give us will and desire
and perception to help aright.

O God give us all grace
to know and accept the difference.
Amen.

LADIES ONLY, THIS TIME

On Wednesday, 12th July the Ladies Guild hope to have their annual trip, this time to Southport and Hoylake. Those who wish to join this excursion are asked to submit their names to Mrs. A. Stott as soon as they posiibly can.
All ladies are welcome.

WE ALL HAVE OUR CROSSES TO BEAR

The Good Friday Procession from Littleborough to the top of Blackstone Edge was, all things considered, a well supported venture with members from both Littleborough and Milnrow churches involved. One aim of the expedition was to recapture the dry heat and dust that we presume was a feature of Christ's journey with his cross to Golgotha. If that was our major aim we certainly chose the wrong day for we were a very wet, cold and bedraggled band by the time we reached the spot where we erected our luminous cross. Even so the cross still took quite a bit of carrying and for some of our younger (and older) members it was tiring enough journey. For all of us it was a chance to walk in quietness and to think a little as we trudged along.

JUMBLE NEWS

Recently both the Busy Bees and the Pilots have had jumble sales. The Bees ended up with £16.60. for the honey pot and when the Pilot's ship came home they made £9.50. Well done.
